

TERRITORIAL ITEMS OF INTEREST CONDENSED.

The troopers at Fort Huachuca have been having fine luck with their guns in the mountains behind the barracks this fall, and within the past two weeks have brought into the fort about fifteen deer, while three bears have been killed in the same range within the past few days.

Mrs. John H. Campbell, wife of Judge Campbell of Tucson, passed away after a long illness. Mrs. Campbell is survived by three children, William, Helen and Ruth. A sister, Mrs. Ralph Bowen, resides at Tucson and another sister, Mrs. T. J. Fox, lives in Phoenix.

A band of Yaqui warriors marching into the interior of Arizona, nude to the waist and armed to the teeth, was reported to the Tucson headquarters of the immigration service. There was some apprehension that the Indians might be on the warpath in the United States much as they have been in Mexico.

Miss Lucy Winsor of Geronimo died at the hospital at Globe yesterday after an operation which was performed Friday.

The board of supervisors have authorized the building of a concrete block jail at Parker, and it is said that the old fixtures and cells in the old jail at Yuma will be utilized.

A territorial shoot of the Arizona National Guard, to be held on the new rifle range near Wilcox station, is a project upon which members of the Tucson Rifle club are now working, having started on the basic idea that the new rifle range, when fully equipped, will be one of the best in the entire southwest.

The Douglas chamber of commerce and mines announces that in the near future a broom factory, using the broom corn grown in the Sulphur Springs valley, will be established there. An overall factory is also to be started soon.

The Indian policeman from the Indian school at Tucson was returning from Chloride with a boy and a girl, and while in Kingman the two escaped the vigilance of the officer and went before a Probate Judge and were married. An Indian interpreter assured the Judge that the boy was 21 and the girl 19 years of age. When the policeman found that the two had played hooky from him for life, he gracefully submitted, and the happy couple departed to their home in Chloride.

An early decision as to which city of Arizona is to get the next session of the American Mining congress may be expected daily now, according to A. W. Forbes of Tucson, a member of the advisory board of the congress, and a delegate to the recent congress from Tucson. Though Col. Randolph favored Phoenix as the location for the 1911 congress, said Mr. Forbes, it now appears that Douglas, backed by Phelps-Dodge interests in that locality will get it. "It appears to be a question of which Arizona town will put up the necessary amount of money," he said. "Douglas now has about $5000 on hand, and another $3000 will meet the requirements."

Forty-five carloads of cattle, comprising in all 1200 head were loaded at the stockyards at Tucson and were shipped out last night to Merced Cal. to the San Joaquin valley, where they will be placed on pasture and fattened for the market.

The Tucson Citizen says: Ready to commence operations on an extensive scale in both placer and quartz mining, Mrs. Emma Rook, one of the chief owners of the Manhattan mine in the Comobabi mountains, 58 miles from Tucson, arrived here yesterday evening from Los Angeles. Two freight cars, one loaded with placer machinery, and the other with horses and camp equipment are expected here today. Two coast mining men, a general manager and a superintendent will arrive here tomorrow.

The Douglas Daily Dispatch head artist has discovered that Julia Ward Howe was the "creator of Uncle Tom," which is going some, even for Douglas.

Where is Winkelman? No, the town is neither lost, strayed nor stolen, but somebody with a genius of starting things has discovered that it isn't in Gila county at all, but is in reality within the borders of Pinal county. Gila has recently spent a lot of money at Winkelman, and if the town doesn't stay put the supervisors are going to know the reason why.

Making the Arizona Constitution

The following propositions were introduced yesterday at the constitutional convention:

No. 45, by Connelley, relating to legislation.

No. 46, by Bradner, being an educational qualification act.

No. 47, by Parsons, regarding labor contracts.

No. 48, by Parsons, provides that none but citizens of the United States be employed on public works.

No. 49, by Parsons, covering police regulations.

No. 50, by Parsons, provides that no limit shall be placed in the statutes for the recovery of damages by an employee.

No. 51, by Ellinwood, is an educational qualification act.

No. 52, by R. B. Sims, is relative to municipal corporations and city charters.

No. 53, by Baker, is relative to banking.

No. 54, by Collier, touches upon the method of amending the constitution.

No. 55, by Collier, fixing the salary of members of the upper house of the state legislature at $600 per annum, and that of the lower house at $500 per annum.

No. 56, by Coker, creating a corporation commission of three members to regulate all private corporations.

No. 57, by Coker, exempting certain religious associations and charitable bodies from taxation.

No. 58, by A. M. Jones, providing that all peace officers must be qualified electors.

No. 59, by Webb, fixing the limitations that shall be placed upon the practice of medicine.

No. 60, by Keegan, provides that the salaries of all county officers shall be fixed from time to time by the various legislatures.

The ancient controversy as to whether a large portion of the city of Yuma is in Arizona or California settled for 15 years, was recalled yesterday when a constitutional provision fixing the boundaries, came up for final passage. The matter was recommended to be taken up with Washington authorities before its final submission.

A proposition was submitted by Parsons relating to exemptions from taxation, exempting the property of widows, orphans and deserted wives, the exemption not exceeding $1000 where the property owned did not exceed $2000.

A communication from Henry C. White calling for an appropriation of land for the establishment of a state school for the deaf and dumb, was submitted.

A storm broke in the convention yesterday afternoon. The cause was an article appearing in the Globe Daily Globe, in which it was stated that certain members, Webb, Baker, and Franklin were "corrupt" because they did not get appointments as chairmen of any committees. The article was written by A. A. Cohn, secretary to President Hunt of the convention. Several speeches were made.

Proposition No. 66, by Orme of Maricopa, was introduced and read. This proposition gives agricultural industries the priority over manufacturing in the distribution of power rights and advocates the continuation of the present laws touching on agriculture.

Four or five propositions have been introduced in the constitutional convention bearing on the initiative and referendum. The last proposition introduced is by Winsor of Yuma county providing for 8 per cent, to initiate and 5 per cent, to refer. Judge A. C. Baker favors 10 per cent, to initiate and 5 per cent, to refer. The Cochise delegation with ten votes is pledged to the smaller percentage, and it is quite probable that the Winsor proposition will be the one adopted.

Girl Paroled From Industrial School

Viola Hazel Gray has been paroled from the territorial industrial school at Benson, by Governor Sloan. The girl was committed from Coconino county August 4 of last year for the crime of "dependancy and neglect." Her record at the school has been excellent and friends succeeded in convincing the governor that her personal interests would be better served by her parole than by her detention.

Former Tombstoner in Phoenix

E. B. Gage, president of the Phoenix National bank, is in the city on a business visit. Mr. Gage has been sailing more or less for two years, and he is now in the enjoyment of good health. He has resided in San Francisco for the past four months under the doctors care and the result has been gratifying. E. B. Gage is one of the best known men in Arizona, having lived in Tombstone in the early and prosperous days of that camp, and he is one of Arizona's best citizens—an honorable, just man.—Phoenix Democrat.

Ruling Hard Blow On Indian Traders

The government has recently made a decision in relation to the Navajo Indians which will work hardship on many of the Indian traders on the reservation. It seems that the ruling is to the effect that the Indians will not be permitted to sell or dispose of their stock on the reservation and the traders will not be allowed to loan money on chattels to them. It is understood the ruling was to increase the blanket industry among the Indians.

DENTISTRY

Dr. M. E. Brenner, surgeon dentist, has resigned his practice in the Gila Valley, where he has been located for the last 17 years, to make his headquarters in Tombstone, bad health being the cause of change. The doctor will bring his car over, and visit neighboring towns later on. He brings with him a complete outfit to do all kinds of modern dentistry, and his introductory prices will be very low. The doctor makes high class gold and porcelain work a specialty. Call and consult him free. He also has a four room cottage located in the heart of Safford, which he will trade for a home in Tombstone. Office opposite post-office in Tombstone. O5w

Deputy Assessor Ross Entertained

Deputy County Assessor Ross, last evening, entertained a small party of male friends at his cozy cottage on Safford street at cards, whist and pitch being the favorite games with the gentlemen. The evening passed off very fast with interest intensely centered on the fascinating game, which was not broken until about 11 o'clock when the thoughtful wife of the host entered the parlors, bringing heavily loaded trays of delicious refreshments, and, of course, it goes without saying that the games were then forgotten—man always gives up almost anything for good things to eat, especially when served by a charming woman like Mrs. Ross. It was about midnight when the guests adjourned for their respective homes. Those who were present besides the host were County Assessor Howe, Demerest, Myers, Anderson, Austin Brown, Westervelt and Telin.

Rabies from a Common Skunk Bite

Young Jesse Wetmore, who is engaged in dry farming at Rillito, reports a case of rabies in a dog from the bite of a common skunk. When the dog first showed signs of sickness he used the usual remedies on him, but as the animal continued to grow worse he was advised to chain him up and watch results. This he did and at the end of ten days he was obliged to kill the poor brute. Although securely fastened the dog frothed at the mouth, snapped and bit at everything within reach. Although considered a valuable animal Mr. Wetmore considered it best to destroy it, as there was no probability of its recovering from the attack.
